EMMA E. FORREST, METRO EDITOR

When Britain's favorite royal got hitched to a Hollywood star, it was no straight-up royal wedding. Not just because the bride is a mixed-race American divorcee actress, but mostly because the ceremony showed diversity, warmth and personality, not really a forte for British royal events. Who knows if Meghan can change "The Firm," but let's hope it doesn't change her — too much. Either way, here's a U.K.-U.S. special relationship we can all get excited about. TRUMP TO DEMAND THAT DOJ
EXAMINE CAMPAIGN CLAIMS

President Donald Trump demanded on Twitter on Sunday that the Justice Department look into whether his 2016 presidential campaign was infiltrated or surveilled by the agency or the FBI under the Obama administration. Trump's simmering anger over Special Counsel Robert Mueller's year-old Russia probe appeared to spill over into a series of well-worn recriminations in several tweets, including that the investigation was politically motivated and had its roots in the administration of his Democratic predecessor, Barack Obama. Trump's lawyer, Rudy Giuliani, was quoted by the New York Times later on Sunday as saying that Mueller had said the investigation would wrap up by Sept. 1. Trump has denied any collusion and repeatedly dismissed the investigation as a "witch hunt." "I hereby demand, and will do so officially tomorrow, that the Department of Justice look into whether or not the FBI/DOJ infiltrated or surveilled the Trump Campaign for Political Purposes — and if any such demands or requests were made by people within the Obama Administration!" Trump wrote on Twitter.

HAWAII FACES NEW THREAT
FROM VOLCANO: LAZE

Hawaii residents dealing with Kilauea's volcanic eruption faced a potentially deadly new challenge on Sunday as lava that reached the Pacific Ocean threatened to send up laze, a hazardous mix of glass particles and noxious gas. The new challenge came when a stream of lava from the volcano cut through Highway 137 on the south coast of Hawaii's Big Island late on Saturday and then poured into the sea, authorities said. The mix of erupting lava, which can reach 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and sea water could send up plumes of laze, a mix of hydrochloric acid, steam and volcanic glass particles, Hawaii County Civil Defense said in a statement. "Be aware of the laze hazard and stay away from any ocean plume," the agency said, warning that potential hazards include lung damage. Laze — a combination of "lava" and "haze" — killed two people in 2000 when a lava flow reached the coast, and even a wisp can irritate eyes and lungs and make it hard to breathe, the U.S. Geological Survey said. The public was warned to stay away from potential plumes of laze near where the lava is flowing into the ocean.

US WILL NOT RECOGNIZE
VENEZUELA ELECTION

4 The U.S. will not recognize the result of Venezuela's presidential election on Sunday, U.S. Deputy Secretary of State John Sullivan told journalists. The United States is actively considering oil sanctions on Venezuela, and Sullivan said a response to Sunday's vote would be discussed at a G20 meeting in Buenos Aires on Monday. Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro was seeking a six-year term in a Sunday election boycotted by the opposition and condemned by foes as the "coronation" of a dictator. Maduro looked set to win re-election on Sunday in a seemingly poorly attended vote. Despite his unpopularity over the OPEC member's economic meltdown, the 55-year-old former bus driver was benefiting from a boycott by the mainstream opposition, a ban on his two most popular rivals, and state institutions in loyalists' hands. The vote could trigger new sanctions from the United States, and more censure from the European Union and Latin America. U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo called the election a "sham."

MNUCHIN: US AND CHINA TO PUT TRADE WAR 'ON HOLD'

5 The U.S. trade war with China is "on hold" after the world's largest economies agreed to drop their tariff threats while they work on a wider trade agreement, U.S. Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin said on Sunday. Mnuchin and U.S. President Donald Trump's top economic adviser, Larry Kudlow, said the agreement reached by Chinese and American negotiators on Saturday set up a framework for addressing trade imbalances in the future. "We are putting the trade war on hold. Right now, we have agreed to put the tariffs on hold while we try to execute the framework," Mnuchin said in a television interview on "Fox News Sunday." On Saturday, Beijing and Washington said they would keep talking about measures under which China would import more energy and agricultural commodities from the United States to narrow the $335 billion annual U.S. goods and services trade deficit with China. During an initial round of talks this month in Beijing, Washington demanded that China reduce its trade surplus by $200 billion. No dollar figure was cited in the countries' joint statement on Saturday.

Spurned advances provoked Texas school shooting, victim's mother says

Texas Gov. Greg Abbott, a Republican, told reporters that the alleged shooter obtained the firearms from his father, who had likely acquired them legally.

A teenaged boy who shot and killed eight students and two teachers in Texas had been spurned by one of his victims after making aggressive advances, her mother told the Los Angeles Times.

Sadie Rodriguez, the mother of Shana Fisher, 16, told the newspaper that her daughter rejected four months of aggressive advances from accused shooter Dimitrios Pagourtzis, 17, at the Santa Fe high school.

Fisher finally stood up to him and embarrassed him in class, the newspaper quoted her mother as writing in a private message to the Times.

"A week later he opens fire on everyone he didn't like," she said.

"Shana being the first one."

Rodriguez could not independently be reached for comment.

If true, it would be the second school shooting in recent months driven by such rejection.

In March, a 17-year-old Maryland high school student used his father's gun to shoot and kill a female student with whom he had been in a recently ended relationship.

As the investigation enters its third day on Sunday, no official motive has been announced for the massacre, the fourth-deadliest mass shooting at a U.S. public school in modern history.

The Santa Fe school district denied accounts from some classmates that Pagourtzis had been bullied, including by a football coach.

"Administration looked into these claims and confirmed that these reports are untrue," it said on Saturday in a statement on Facebook.

Classmates at Santa Fe High School, which has some 1,460 students, described Pagourtzis as a quiet loner who played on the school's football team. He wore a black trench coat to school in the Texas heat on Friday and opened fire with a pistol and shotgun.

Multiple news accounts depicted him as taunting his victims as he fired, focusing mostly on the arts class where Fisher was.

He has provided authorities little information about the shootings, his attorney Nicholas Poehl said, adding: "Honestly because of his emotional state, I don't have a lot on that."

Texas Gov. Greg Abbott said Pagourtzis wanted to commit suicide, citing the suspect's journals, but did not have the courage to do so.

Pagourtzis' family said in a statement they were "saddened and dismayed" by the shooting and "as shocked as anyone else" by the events. They said they are cooperating with authorities.

All schools in Santa Fe will be closed Monday and Tuesday, officials said.

Pagourtzis, who police said has confessed to the shooting, was being held without bond Sunday at a jail in Galveston. Read more on page 13. REUTERS

Texas victims include smiling Pakistani girl, fill-in teacher with two jobs

Eight students and two teachers fell victim to gunfire at a high school outside Houston on Friday morning, becoming the latest casualties in a wave of deadly school shootings in the United States in recent years.

Among the fatalities at Santa Fe High School were a Pakistani exchange student and a substitute teacher trying to make ends meet for her family. Here are brief profiles of some of the victims:

Sabika Sheikh

A 17-year-old Pakistani with a bright smile, Sheikh was proud to be studying in the United States as an exchange student. The experience was organized through YES, a program funded by the U.S. State Department which provides scholarships for students from countries with significant Muslim populations to spend one academic year in the United States.

Her father told reporters in her hometown of Karachi that she was the eldest of four children and due to return to Pakistan next month for Eid al-Fitr, a three day holiday.

Cynthia Tisdale

Tisdale was a substitute teacher at Santa Fe High School. She took on a second job as a server at a local restaurant after she became her family's sole income earner when her husband was diagnosed with an incurable lung disease, her brother-in-law John Tisdale posted on Facebook.

Ann Perkins

Perkins was a substitute teacher known to students and other members of the Santa Fe community as "Grandma Perkins" for her love of spending time with her children, grandchildren and students, according to a local CBS affiliate.

Christian Riley Garcia

Garcia was remembered on Facebook by the Crosby Church pastor who baptized him years earlier. A photograph of Garcia, 15, taken just days before the shooting, shows him wearing sunglasses, a baseball cap and a slight smile that reveals braces on his teeth.

Kimberly Vaughan

After a search for her missing daughter, U.S. Army veteran Rhonda Hart posted to Facebook that Vaughan had been shot dead in her first-period art class.

Shana Fisher

Just one week after she celebrated her 16th birthday, Fisher was killed when the gunman opened fire on the art class, her aunt wrote on Twitter. "She should be getting her first car, not a funeral," tweeted @candithurman.

Chris Stone

Stone, 17, had a passion for adventure and football. The high school junior's Facebook page features photographs of such sports heroes as the Dallas Cowboys and scenic views of breathtaking wilderness.

Angelique Ramirez

Ramirez's aunt Sylvia Pritchett, a nurse, frantically asked colleagues on Facebook if her niece was at an area hospital after she was told she had been shot in the leg. Later Pritchett announced that Ramirez was among the fatalities, saying that she had "a broken heart and a soul that can't process all this right now," and to "hug your children tightly."

Jared Conard Black

Black, who according to his Facebook page liked to draw anime pictures, celebrated his 17th birthday just two days before he was shot dead, his uncle told KTRK-TV.

According to a GoFundMe set up by a family friend to raise money for relatives to fly to the funeral from California, Jared's father "sat in misery for 13 hours not knowing if [his son] was one of the victims. Then he got the devastating news."

Kyle McLeod

This is how London celebrated newlyweds Harry and Meghan

Metro reported from the British city during Prince Harry and Meghan Markle's wedding date.

Londoners were gripped by royal wedding fever as fans came out in force to celebrate Prince Harry and Meghan Markle's big day — dressing in swimsuits featuring the happy couple's faces, sipping special beer to commemorate their nuptials, and making replica lemon and elderflower cakes.

Partygoers wearing Harry and Meghan masks, and patriotic red, white and blue clothing packed out pubs and street parties full of Union Jack bunting and flags to mark the huge occasion.

Meghan lookalikes wore crowns and tiaras for the day, and royal super-fans crammed around big screens clutching glasses full of champagne eagerly looking out for glimpses of the bride in her stunning dress.

A host of The Windsor Castle pubs around London — including one in Kensington, just metres from the couple's Kensington Palace home — stocked a special Harry and Meghan ale, Windsor Knot, and supporters became emotional as they watched the nuptials.

Rina Kuci, 22, a barmaid at The Windsor Castle in Marylebone, said: "I'm a huge royal fan. I nearly cried when they were saying their vows."

At a street party near Marble Arch, one family spent hundreds on various Harry and Meghan memorabilia, including swimsuits, corgi balloons, and commemorative plates.

Fay Strang, 32, who had a bathing suit custom made to celebrate the big day, said: "I love Meghan Markle and am so excited she is joining the royal family."

"The picture on my swimsuit was my favorite one of their engagement photographs — they just look so happy and in love. I've had so many compliments and will be wearing it after the wedding!"

Other partygoers were made to feel as though they were guests at Harry and Meghan's wedding reception as they tucked into delicious lemon and elderflower cupcakes — the same flavor as the real sweet treat made by pastry chef Claire Ptak.

Host Anna Turnbull-Walker, 60, who made the replica cakes, said: "When I heard what they were having, I thought it was really unusual and would be fun to recreate, and they went down really well."

"The last time we had a royal wedding party was when Charles married Diana — let's hope this marriage ends better!"

party in south London, guests were served special sausages featuring “sweet ginger” — to reflect Harry’s hair color — and American mustard, to mark Meghan’s home nation, as well as quintessentially British desserts, such as strawberries and cream, and Eton mess.

Amy Rowland, 33, who baked some scones for the big day, said: "When I think of the royals I think of British delicacies like scones, so I just had to make some. They were delicious!"

Aesthetically pleasing London church One Marylebone went all out to celebrate Harry and Meghan's union by hiring Sir Elton John and Ed Sheeran tribute acts to serenade guests.

Attendee Alison Range, 24, said: "We cannot wait to see what Elton and Ed have in store — what a perfect way to toast the happy couple."

Some fans ensured Harry's mother, the late Princess Diana, was remembered on the big day by setting up their picnics next to The Princess Diana Memorial Fountain in Hyde Park.

Pam Stevens, 57, said: "I just felt this was the right place to be today. Diana would've been proud of Harry."

In the lead-up to the big day, Londoners transformed the city into a Harry and Meghan masterpiece.

Oxford Street sellers filled their souvenir shops with Harry and Meghan plates, T-shirts, bags, key rings and mugs; and Regent Street was awash with Union lack flags.

Marks & Spencer stores around the capital were rebranded Markle & Sparkle for the weekend, and pubs spent weeks perfecting royal cocktail recipes.

Royal superfan Kate Randall, 34, said: "I've been looking forward to this day for months and expected to have a fabulous time, but this is beyond even my wildest dreams. Cheers to the happy couple!"

A colorful wedding full of details

In Great Britain, hats are a tradition, protected by the aristocratic principle of individuality. But at Prince Harry and Meghan Markle's wedding and beyond the bride's significant Givenchy dress — the veil depicted the Commonwealth countries with flowers — celebrities also showed how they can reinvent a royal wedding dress code for posterity. Metro highlights our picks of looks that became a digital delight for internet users and fashionistas. LUZ LANCHEROS, MWN

1 Amal Clooney
Best dressed! Yellow may not suit everyone but it definitely looks great on the human rights lawyer. Her Stella McCartney had the perfect cut and silhouette, with remarkable accents in the same color, a simple hairstyle and contrasting makeup.

2 Victoria Beckham
Seven years ago, she dressed in black for William and Kate's wedding, but this time she opted for dark blue. With such a minimalist and refined style, she can always be herself and impact with a dress in simple lines and a tulle headdress that's not improvised.

3 Priyanka Chopra
Curves in Dior, a pastel ensemble with simple lines. An outfit that impacts by wrapping the body to perfection, classically highlighting her silhouette, but without being boring.

4 Kitty Spencer
This is how you can take flowers to a wedding other than as a bouquet. With a dreamy Dolce & Gabbana dress, with touches of orange and perfectly styled that lets the dress speak on its own, complemented with a geometric and original headdress.

5 Serena Williams
A dress that perfectly adapted to her body (Versace) with a headdress that respects the original shape of the tennis player's hair. Her best look so far.

NASA is sending a drone to Mars

NASA has unveiled new technology that could be used to explore Mars.

The exploration of Mars, known as the Red Planet, could soon reach new heights with the arrival of the Mars Helicopter, a small autonomous rotorcraft that will travel with the agency's Mars 2020 rover mission, scheduled to launch in July 2020. It

Betting on Atlantic City just became a very smart move

New laws, new casinos and tax cuts could be the perfect recipe for a boom on the Jersey Shore.

sam.newhouse@metro.us

After decades of gambling on sports, here's a surprise that few Americans were betting on: sports gambling is now legal. The May 14 Supreme Court decision striking down a ban on sports bets represents a change in the gambling world so massive it was hard to put into words, even for seasoned bettors like the Philly Godfather.

"It's a monumental day," the Philly Godfather, real name Steve Maltpepe, marveled. "People are gonna be able to bet on whatever they want."

The implications of the Supreme Court decision are still being figured out — like when exactly the new laws take effect — but everyone agrees legalizing a multi-billion-dollar black market industry will create jobs and boost the local economy. Coupled with an upward swing in the fortunes of Atlantic City, which recently reported its first gains after years of decline and has two brand-new casinos set to open on the same day next months.

"It's gonna be great for the East Coast," Philly Godfather predicted. "No one has to fly out to Las Vegas anymore, that five-hour grueling flight. As long as Atlantic City can be built up in the right way, that whole Vegas feel they have out there, if they can replicate it here, it will be huge."

A new state report shows that as of April 2018, total gaming revenues were up 1.3 percent in Atlantic City's casino scene over a year prior at $214 million, according to the New Jersey Division of Gaming Enforcement. Enthusiasm is in the air: On Memorial Day weekend, Resorts Casino Hotel will celebrate its 40th anniversary by dropping 10,000 beach balls on the Boardwalk and re-enacting the first roll of the dice ever to take place at the casino in

Four weeks later on June 28, two casinos are opening on the same day (reportedly a first in Atlantic City history): the Hard Rock Hotel and Casino and the Ocean Resort Casino. The two casinos collectively represent the creations of some 6,500 jobs in the area. Several of the casinos are planning to open up their own sports books to compete with those in Vegas.

6,500

Two casinos opening in June will bring 6,500 jobs to the area.

"It could be huge if they do it the right way .... the pool parties, the clubs, you gotta have other things to do. Now, with the sports betting it will be a domino effect, if you can make it a destination," Philly Godfather predicted. "NBA playoffs, NHL Stanley Cup, March Madness — people like to go somewhere and have fun while they're gambling. It could become ever bigger than Vegas. The majority of the population lives on the East Coast, 140 million people. Who's gonna take that five-hour long flight?"

Philly Godfather runs his own website, Philly-Godfather.com, a subscription service that since 2012 has offered his picks and tips for who to bet on in the sports world. ("We're the real deal, the one percent of professional sports bettors that actually win," he said.)

The only people who will get hurt, he said, are small-time street bookies who have been the go-to guy for black market gambling. And he predicted states will begin cracking down on those operations as they begin collecting tax revenue on legalized, regulated gambling.

"It's bad news for the local street bookies. ... It's really going to hurt the mob more than anybody else," he said. "They're gonna be in trouble economically."

The implications of the Supreme Court decision are still being figured out — like when exactly the new laws take effect — but everyone agrees legalizing a multi-billion-dollar black market industry will create jobs and boost the local economy. ISTOCK

Dogs are helping New Yorkers learn Yiddish

Interest in Yiddish for Dogs, a program of Workmen's Circle, shows the ancient language is far from dead. In fact, it's here to "shtai."

nikki.mascali@metro.us

Yiddish has been spoken for more than a thousand years, but anyone thinking it's a dead language in today's world need only look to the Workmen's Circle to see that's not true at all.

In fact, the city-based Jewish social justice organization has been teaching the ancient language to more than 450 New Yorkers annually, a number that doesn't include their dogs, who can learn some vital commands in the language thanks to its popular Yiddish for Dogs class, the third of which was to have taken place Sunday in Central Park but was postponed due to the rainy weather.

"We are always looking for new programs to connect people with Jewish culture in fun and unusual ways," Executive Director Ann Tobak said in a statement. "We're showing that Yiddish is accessible, vibrant, fun and part of all our lives as New Yorkers. And what dog owner couldn't use a refresher class in good leadership skills? You can even teach your dogs to fetch — and not to kvetch — in one and a half hours!"

The Yiddish for Dogs classes pair Adrian Silver, an advanced Yiddish class student, with Miguel Rodriguez, a longtime certified master trainer and founder of City Dog Pack, which offers dog training, sitting and walking services.

While Rodriguez knew not a word before the first Yiddish for Dogs, "I've already learned a lot," he said. "It helps develop a vocabulary with your dog, which is extremely important and helps develop a bond so you can understand each other a little more, and it can help save your dog's life. And what's good about the Yiddish language in regards to dog training is a lot of the words are sharp."

Thanks to his grandparents, Silver has spoken Yiddish since childhood and sought out Workmen's Circle for a refresher about 10 years ago. And while he shared that Jews traditionally don't speak Yiddish to their pets, he isn't surprised by the interest in Yiddish for Dogs.

"There's been a lot of interest in Yiddish that I've seen over the past 10 years, but it can be intimidating, and who can you actually speak to anyway?" he said. "People don't know someone else who knows Yiddish; it made sense to me that they'd want to learn and speak it with their close companions who they don't have to worry about speaking back," he added with a laugh.

As Silver had hoped, Yiddish for Dogs has been a gateway to New Yorkers wanting to learn more about the ancient language by taking classes via Workmen's Circle, "but we haven't seen any of the dogs," he joked.

Yiddish for Dogs costs $15. To reserve your spot, visit circle.org/event/yiddish-for-dogs.

- My toenails are streaked, discolored and thickened.
- The sides of my toenails dig into the skin and hurt.
- I have a large bump behind my big toe (or little toe) which is always red.
- I get an extremely painful "cornea" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight—they are all cocked-up, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thick no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottom of my feet hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and itchy—sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rash, or open sores.

TRUMP'S AMERICA

SHUTTING THE DOOR
ON GUN SANITY

On Friday, a shooter at Santa Fe High School in Texas killed 10 people. GETTY IMAGES

Analysis

HENICAN

Metro columnist Ellis Henican is the best-selling author of a dozen books. Join Ellis on Twitter @henican.

Another 10 dead by gunfire, and here we go again.

This time, the slaughter was outside Houston at Santa Fe High School. And Dan Patrick, the pro-gun lieutenant governor of Texas, had another imbecilic excuse for refusing to do anything about America's sickness with guns. Guns weren't responsible for the Santa Fe massacre, he insisted, even though shooter Dimitrios Pagourtzis came to school with his dad's Remington 870 shotgun and .38-caliber pistol and fired dozens of rounds.

Blame the doors, he said.

"There are too many entrances and too many exits to our more than 8,000 campuses in Texas," claimed Patrick, an evangelical Christian who wants to loosen gun laws in Texas, though it's hard to imagine how that's even possible. "Had there been one single entrance possibly for every student, maybe he would have been stopped."

This is the deflection du jour: Not gun control, door control! Guns don't kill people — doors do!

If you think I'm kidding, just know this: Right now, Texas Gov. Greg Abbott is touting a "Win a Texas-made Shotgun" giveaway on his website. But the next Dimitrios Pagourtzis had better act quickly. Entries for the pump-action drawing close May 31.

The truth of the matter is that Santa Fe High School had already gone through many of the pointless motions that the gun-sanity defectors like to promote at times like this, hoping to avoid any real gun-safety measures.

Lockdowns. Evacuation drills. Armed guards. The Santa Fe students got all that. The one thing they didn't get was any action that might have actually protected them from an ever-expanding proliferation of guns.

Trigger locks. Background checks. Age limits. Bans on military-style firepower. Smaller magazines. Strict liability laws. Legal responsibility for parents who fail to safeguard their weapons at homes.

I heard another one recently. Tax the bullets. A lot. Like, 3,000 percent. At some point, we could probably price the homicidal maniacs out of their mayhem.

There is no magic bullet, of course — and sorry about the sorry analogy. But we already know what would make America's children a little safer if we cared to. Sorry, Lt. Gov. Patrick. That doesn't include armed math and English teachers, and it doesn't include door control.

Can This Medical Technology Possibly Eliminate Or

The Advanced Medical Treatment Every Back & Neck Pain Sufferer Needs To Know

NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic with two locations in New York City that has made a name for itself by treating the worst cases of back or neck pain.

Here is what every back and neck pain sufferer who has failed to respond to other treatments and does not want surgery should know about one of the best treatment options available today for severe back and neck pain including when, why and where you should consider this treatment to get maximum results.

If you suffer with back, neck or nerve pain, you have probably already tried many treatments ... especially countless pain medications.

Experienced doctors understand that even though pain medications such as anti-inflammatory pain pills are part of the recommended early treatment plan for back pain... they are rarely the answer.

In most cases they have minimal, short term results (if any) and have a laundry list of potential side effects. Some being serious and even life threatening.

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there is very good option to help relieve the pain.

An option that a lot of back and neck pain sufferers may have never heard of before.

Before we get into these treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated the worst cases of back pain. Patients travel from all over to be treated at one of their clinics for all sorts of joint and muscle pain because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover is a REAL medical treatment. Not some miracle cure you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no one treatment that will help every case of back pain. And we cannot guarantee this treatment will work for you. But this treatment has already helped countless back and neck pain sufferers who had given up hope. I bet many just like you.

What is this treatment? It's called...

Radiofrequency Neurotomy "Radiofrequency Neurotomy" is often referred to as RF for short. Just what is "RF".

RF is a procedure that is based on the concept that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your spine and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

Radiofrequency waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves and slow down the pain

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, the Radio Frequency

Neurotomy is scheduled and performed for longer term relief.

What Results Can You Expect?

Like all real medical procedures... results vary for individual patients. No good and ethical doctor would guarantee any exact results for any procedure... that's just not how things work and it would be less than honest.

That's being said, it is not uncommon for patients to get complete, if not significant relief of their pain shortly after the treatment.

How Long Do The Results Last?

This procedure "impairs" the nerves pain signals... it does not destroy them. Therefore, the results are safe but not completely permanent. But, many patients get relief for 6 months... 12 months.... 18 months for some even longer. The great news is - another procedure can be safely preformed for more relief if necessary.

While we cannot claim this is a complete "permanent cure" ... it can be a godsend for so many who were in constant pain.

Really... what would it be worth if you could get out of pain for long enough so you could start enjoying your everyday life again?

Would it be worth it to be able to finally get a good night's sleep again?

How about being able to go for a simple walk or just do your basic daily chores without worrying about so much pain?

Is It Safe?

Yes. This procedure has been done countless times and continues to have an excellent safety record. It is minimally invasive and is not surgical.

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication and physical therapy do not offer good enough results.

RF has also been found effective AFTER back surgery when patient's still feel pain.

The pain after a failed back surgery can be debilitating for some and this procedure may be the only thing that helps give you relief.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain And The "X" Factor

Here is the "X" factor many do not consider that might be the difference between you getting the best possible treatment or not.

Many experts suggest choosing a medical clinic that offers all these treatments and has the proper, most advanced technology all under one roof without the need for a surgical center or hospital.

NYC Pain MD believes this additional "X" factor is one of the reasons so many back pain sufferers travel from all over to be treated at their advanced medical center.

Your Invitation

NYC Pain MD offers limited number of complimentary back and neck pain screenings every month. These screenings are a way for pain sufferers to get some of their questions answered and see if they are candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at NYC

the GRUMBLE

Stop puffing your vape clouds indoors!

Ever since smoking cigarettes has been harder to do in most public areas, a new form of air pollution has emerged in a more invasive way. This menace is known vaping. Even though it is a healthier option to smoking cigarettes, what makes vaping a different beast altogether is that there are no laws banning vapers from doing it indoors. This is because vaping is water-based as opposed to ... who really knows everything that's in a cigarette these days? Now, everywhere you go there is big chance that some over confident vape dragon will be releasing long giant puffs of vapor into the air. There's no hiding from it. You could be sitting in a crowded movie theater only to have the person sitting next to you flavor your popcorn with a cotton candy-flavored fog. You could be sitting in your cubicle as your co-worker, let's call him "Todd," is puffing away like the caterpillar from "Alice in Wonderland." No more, I say! So, to all the people out there who choose to vape indoors: Take it outside!

READERS REACT: BASIC MANNERS!

When did the proper response to a polite and sincere "Thank You" devolve from "You're Welcome", or "My Pleasure" to "No Problem".

Really, no problem. Did I say thank you for handling something messy or awkward.

Did I just seriously inconvenience you and fluff it off by a mere "Thank you".

No, I appropriately appreciated you holding the door as I entered a store, and you waved me in, or I paid my bill at the grocery and you handed me the correct change and you smiled politely. Thank you is a formal acknowledgment of appreciation for tasks large and small, and it should be reciprocated in the same way.

That should be NO PROB-LEM to anyone.

Aries Focus on what you can do for others and what you want in return. A flair for compromise will be what helps you excel. Go with the flow and avoid interference.

Taurus Ease into whatever you plan to do today. Problems at home will leave you wondering what to do next. Accept the inevitable and do your own thing.

Gemini Your involvement in organized events, retreats or trade shows will motivate you to alter your lifestyle. Initiate change and incorporate a fitness regimen into your daily routine.

Cancer Personal changes can be made, but only if you set a budget and stick to it. Making cosmetic changes will encourage you to update your image and pursue new opportunities.

Leo Overreacting will hurt your reputation or cause a problem at home. Someone will unexpectedly start treating you differently. Stay calm and avoid a senseless argument.

Virgo An energetic presentation will capture attention, but don't mislead people. Stick to the facts and only offer what you know you can deliver. Personal gains are attainable.

Libra Don't make physical changes that will slow you down, lead to complications or cause a problem with an older relative. Think matters through and make reasonable suggestions.

Scorpio Iron out problems before you share your plans with others. You will face opposition from someone you work with or for. A unique option will buy you time and intrigue someone with vision.

Sagittarius A change of location will inspire you to rethink the best way to move forward. Back away from anyone trying to interfere with your decisions or plans.

Capricorn Look for alternative ways to cut corners and save money. Downsizing or investing in something that will lower your expenses should be considered. Share your intentions with someone.

LIFESTYLE

The wine of the season is now available in all kinds of beverages.

eva.kis@metro.us

Rosé isn't just a summer beverage — it is THE summer beverage. Sales of pink wine have grown by 53 percent between the summers of 2016 and 2017 while the rest of the wine world posted just a 4 percent rise, according to analytics firm Nielsen. New York City alone was responsible for drinking 25 percent of all imported rosé in the same period!

"The popularity of rosé wine has exploded the past five years," says Alan Lam, beverage director at Eataly Flatiron, whose seasonally changing rooftop restaurant and bar just went into warm-weather mode, transforming into a slice of the Italian countryside named Serra by Birreria.

"Especially in the spring and summer, we've found that it's all guests want to drink. At Serra, I've expanded rosé by-the-glass options and now feature Frosé two ways: a frozen cocktail and a popsicle. All of them being top sellers."

With that kind of interest, it's no wonder other beverage companies are getting in on the trend by giving their products a rosé twist. Check out these new pink drinks to shake up your wine routine.

Rosé all summer

Nauti Rosé

If there's anything hotter than rosé right now, it's flavored seltzers. Nauti combines your loves in the first-ever Nauti Rosé, a malt-based beverage (think Mike's Hard Lemonade) that gets its flavor from mandarin orange, peach, raspberry and cherry flavors blended into hard seltzer. Low in calories and carbs while still being 5% ABV, the only drawback is its limited availability. Keep an eye on the website and be ready for a road trip to get your hands on these cans. nautiseltzer.com

Moët Ice Imperial Rosé

Spritzes are all the rage in cocktails, so Moët & Chandon has taken the idea and launched a rosé champagne just last summer meant to be served over ice. The melting ice actually opens up the flavor bouquet of the Imperial Rosé rather than diluting it. Is a sunny day a special occasion? Now it is! $79.99

Sparkling Rosé Kit

Make your own personalized rosé bubbly with the Brooklyn Brew Shop's reusable kit. There are enough ingredients to make five bottles, including corks, to impress your guests. Though you'll need to plan ahead though: It takes six weeks to develop those bubbles. $70, brooklynbrewshop.com

Three Olives Rosé Vodka

Rosé has a flavor all its own that can be hard to incorporate into a cocktail — so Three Olives turned it into hard liquor. The new Rosé Vodka gets its fetching shade of pink from natural flavors, without using any wine. The company recommends it as a spritzer with soda water or blended with fruit and ice for frosé. $17.99

Angry Orchard Rosé Hard Cider

Cider's resurgence has pushed cidemakers to experiment with new styles and dial back the sweetness to broaden the appeal of cider. Hudson Valley's Angry Orchard started with the most gorgeous red-fleshed apples sourced from France and added hibiscus flowers for a new Rosé Hard Cider that's similar to a semi-dry wine. Easy on the tannins, this medium-body cider is the drink of 2018's picnics.

Beaubourg's Rosé Saison

One of our favorite waterfront restaurants is Le Beaubourg, whose spacious patio brings a bit of the French seaside to the Hudson River. Complementing its wine selection is a new Rosé Saison commissioned by the brasserie from Brooklyn's Five Boroughs Brewing Co. The American South meets the South of France in this slightly sweet brew balanced with warm spice notes, finishing with a subtle sweet tea flavor.

Reality TV finale fight night

ABC and NBC go head-to-head with big season wrap-ups on Monday.

HENRIETTA JONES

Grab the remote, ready your hashtags and prepare to vote. The heavy hitters of the competitive reality TV world air their finales tonight. Contestants from "Dancing with the Stars," "The Voice" and "American Idol" are all taking their stab at glory, while the celebrity hosts are cashing their checks and looking relieved it's all over.

"Dancing With the Stars"

The Tonya Harding redemption tour peaks this week with the former ice skater and scandal maker shimmying her way to the final with partner Sasha Farber. Redskins quarterback Josh Norman also lines up for the finale, alongside Olympic figure skater Adam Rippon.

There's no doubt that Rippon is the most talented dancer, but there is genuine interest around Harding's attempt to win back public favor.

Manhattan gets its own axe-throwing club

The axe-throwing trend is spreading to the Lower East Side with Gotham Archery.

eva.kis@metro.us

It's a good time to be someone who doesn't like traditional workouts. The fitness world is realizing that the subset of people who actually like exercise is only so big — the rest of us need some incentive.

Hence rooftop yoga, beer yoga and most recently goat yoga (OK, most of the innovation has been in the yoga sphere), but there's an option for those who want to get in touch with their primal side: axe throwing.

That's not all you'll be throwing at Manhattan's first projectile weapon recreational club, Gotham Archery. Opening on Friday, May 25 on the Lower East Side at 73 Allen St., the gym where every day is arm day would make Patrick Bateman envious of all the axes, knives and arrows ready to be slung. The 3,500-square-foot range has 32 archery and axe lanes for classes and 10 lanes ranging from 5 to 15 yards that can be rented.

Gotham Archery started in Gowanus in 2014 after Kevin Hsu and Jimmy Pang got tired of working in finance and got into the alternative-sports business. Unlike Brooklyn's lodge-style Kick Axe Throwing, where a wine and beer bar makes the action a bit more complicated, Gotham Archery is for the dedicated sportsman.

"For safety reasons, Gotham Archery does not serve food and beverages," says spokeswoman Lola Phonpadith, though she notes there will be a selection of waters and Gatorade, as well as snacks like chips and beef jerky. "We do permit private/team-building events to bring in caterers with alcohol, but only after all the action is over."

In fact, that's why Hsu, Pang and partner Chris life in the surrounding area," says Phonpadith.

Archers have a choice of compound or recurve bows. First-timers must take a 40-minute practice session ($40 online, $45 in person/by phone), and beginners can tack on a tutorial on form and safety. You must be at least 10 years old to shoot, and lane rentals are $16 per hour plus $11 to rent the equipment. For serious Robin Hood types, the gym has a Junior Olympic Archery Development program for ages 8 to 20.

To throw axes and knives, you must be at least 16. All first-time visitors must take an hour and a half-long introductory class ($50 online, $55 in person/by phone), while lane rentals are $25 an hour with no additional fee to use the equipment.

There are no sandals or open-toed shoes allowed for hopefully painfully obvious reasons.

Stein chose the location, which used to be a storage area for a hardware store. "Gotham Archery was looking for locations that had plenty of night-

How to pick the right community college for you

Pick the school that can help you get where you want to go.

patrick.king@metro.us

On May 15, it was announced that Kingsborough Community College was nominated, along with nine other schools, for the 2019 Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence for its second year in a row. This prize focuses on student learning, degree completion of both the two-year community program and the full four-year degree once the student has transferred, professional success after graduating and success of minority and low-income students.

A study performed last year by the National Student Clearinghouse found that only 38 percent of all students who attend community college earn their degree from that school. That number may be affected by the fact that many students use community college as a way to boost their chances of being accepted into the undergrad of their choice. But you still have to admit that this number is still pretty low given that millions of students attend community college every year. So how can students make sure they are picking the right community college to fit their plans?

Choose a school that will help you succeed

According to Tom Friebe, VP for Enrollment Management for Kingsborough Community College, students should choose a school based on how that school can help them succeed. If you

38%

THEIR DEGREE FROM THAT SCHOOL.

want to learn a specific trade, for example, you should go to a school that would be able to provide training. But if your goal is to use a community college as a launching pad to attend another four-year program somewhere else, you should choose the school that will best help you to make that transfer.

"You want to see where you will be successful," says Friebe. Kingsborough's path to recognition by Aspen included making sure they help their students transfer to great schools. "Most community colleges across the country send around 65 percent of their students to the workforce and 35 percent to transfers," he explained. "Community colleges in the Northeast, like our school, do the reverse."

But not only does Kingsborough do a good job at helping its students find their right path to success through transferring, they also have the highest graduation and retention rate of all of the CUNY schools and even saw the rate of students taking six years to complete their bachelor's degree fall to 38 percent in 2017.

So when looking for a community college, consider each of the paths you would like to take and how that school can get you there.

When you're ready to change your life.

When you're ready to change the world.

Kingsborough is here for you.

8 Ways to prep for financial adulthood

Congrats, grads! We know you're young, but you still should plan for the future.

NerdWallet is a personal finance website.

Whether you're graduating from high school or college, a diploma and a job represent the beginning of your personal — and financial — adult life. When you have the inevitable "I have no idea what I'm doing" freakout, remember these tips:

1 Set clear financial priorities

You probably can't save, invest and pay off debt all

Your future is a safe bet.

at once, so prioritize in this order:

Save for emergencies, contribute to a 401(k) at least enough to get any "employer match," pay down high-interest debt.

2 Learn a simple budgeting strategy

Identify your after-tax income on your pay stub, then use the 50/30/20 rule as a budgeting guideline:

Use 50 percent for necessities. Put 20 percent toward savings and debt repayment. Spend 30 percent on nice-to-haves like restaurants, travel and entertainment.

3 Learn how credit works

Credit is adulthood's currency. You need good credit to qualify for the best rates on loans for big life purchases.

To have a good credit score, you generally must use credit by taking out loans or opening credit cards.

4 Do some money multitasking

Credit-builder loans can help establish credit and save money at the same time.

5 Leverage your youth to build wealth

Speaking of retirement, saving for it is one of the best uses of your cash now. Compound interest over decades is like magic: A small amount invested today will be worth more than a larger sum you invest 10 years from now.

6 Start saving for retirement

Age 72 is the age at which the class of 2018 can expect to retire, assuming they contribute 6 percent of their incomes to a 401(k) and have a 50-percent employer match, according to a 2018 NerdWallet analysis.

If your employer offers a 401(k) with a match, sign up and contribute at least enough to get the match. Increase your contributions annually or whenever you get a raise.

7 Make a plan for your student loans

If payments on your federal student loans are overwhelming, review your options carefully. Income-driven repayment and Public Service Loan Forgiveness may offer relief, but both require meticulous attention to detail and annual maintenance to pay off.

8 Research your job's market value

Advocating for yourself can be a particularly challenging part of adulthood. As your career progresses, you'll feel empowered to negotiate your salary if you back your ask with hard numbers. Check out what other positions pay in your industry so you can negotiate. TEDDY NYKIEL

Boston University hockey head coach David Quinn has informed the school that he intends to take the head coaching job of the Rangers. GETTY IMAGES in Denmark for the 2018 IIHF World Championships until Monday.

The Rangers are currently the only team in the NHL with a head-coaching vacancy after the Calgary Flames, Dallas

Stars and Carolina Hurricanes all found new men behind the bench before New York could. The new coach of the Stars, Jim Montgomery, was an early favorite for the Rangers job this spring but was snapped up by Dallas on May 4.

It's taken the Rangers almost six weeks to find their new man after firing Alain Vigneault on Apr. 7, ending a five-year run that included four postseason appearances, two trips to the Eastern Conference Finals and an appearance in the Stanley Cup Final in 2014.

Gorton made it clear early on that his team would not be looking for veteran NHL head coaches, instead opting to search for "fresh" faces. It immediately eliminated the likes of assistant coach Lindy Ruff and former Rangers head coach John Tortorella, who were initially linked to the job.

The 51-year-old Quinn began his coaching career in 1993 and received his first head-coaching gig in 2009 with the AHL's Lake Erie Monsters. After one season as an assistant with the Colorado Avalanche in 2012-13, he was brought on as the head coach of Boston University, whom he was an associate coach with from 2004-2009.

In five years with the Terriers, Quinn amassed a 105-67-21 record while making three appearances in the NCAA Tournament's regional final and a trip to the 2015 national championship game.

Source: US, NYRB wonderkid Adams heading to Germany

A source tells Metro New York that Red Bulls star Tyler Adams could be on his way to the Bundesliga.

sports@metro.us

It appears that Tyler Adams is Europe-bound, a move that might happen this summer or perhaps at the conclusion of the MLS season. The 19-year old midfielder is now in the midst of his fourth season as a professional soccer player, the past two years as a regular in the New York Red Bulls starting XI.

Sources tell Metro that Adams is closing in on a deal that would send him to Red Bull Leipzig in the Bundesliga, securing a transfer that presumably would be finalized after the MLS Cup Playoffs this fall. There is a possibility, though, that the move is made permanent this summer and he moves to Europe within the next couple of months.

The sources, all speaking on the condition of anonymity, told Metro that paperwork could be completed within the next few days that would see Adams move to one of Europe's top leagues. Leipzig, the sister club of the New York MLS side, secured a second-straight year of European football with a berth in the Europa League this season.

When reached for comment, New York declined to comment.

player ever signed to the New York Red Bulls II four years ago. A former product of the Red Bulls

Academy, he then assimilated into the first team in 2016 and fully gained a place in the starting lineup in 2017.

Through this weekend, Adams has 32 appearances with the senior team. He made his full national team debut in November as an 18-year old and has become a regular with the United States in several friendly matches since.

He is considered a rising young star, a crucial building block piece as the United States looks to regroup after failing to make this summer's World Cup.

In Germany, Adams will join fellow American teenagers Christian Pulisic of Borussia Dortmund and Weston McKennie of FC Schalke. Both players are regulars for two of the better teams in the country. One source told Metro that Adams could potentially go on loan once he joins Leipzig. One landing spot appears to be Red Bull Salzburg, which would potentially take the player on loan.

Fizdale meeting with Kristaps Porzingis agent a big first step

The new Knicks head coach is reaching out to the face of the franchise.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

David Fizdale, the new head coach of the New York Knicks, isn't wasting any time attempting to get on the good side of his star player, Kristaps Porzingis.

On Friday, Frank Iola of the New York Daily News reported that Fizdale met with Porzingis' older brother and agent, Janis, in Manhattan where talks were "productive." Kristaps was not at the meeting as he continues his recovery from a torn ACL in Madrid, Spain.

It's a big first step for Fizdale, who is attempting to fix a Knicks franchise that has been nothing short of dysfunctional for much of the past two decades. That dysfunctionality has spread to Porzingis, who has been tabbed as the current and future face of the franchise after Carmelo Anthony was traded before the start of last season.

Porzingis grew unhappy with the Knicks organization over the past two years due to their lack of directional organization, which included the implementation of the triangle offense under then-head coach Jeff Hornacek. It resulted in him skipping out on his exit interview at the end of the 2016-17 season with former president Phil Jackson and Steve Mills, who took over as president when Jackson was dismissed last summer, and hiding out in Latvia for a large part of the offseason.

Mills and general manager Scott Perry didn't do much to try and smooth over the relationship with Porzingis, who carried the Knicks for the first half of the 2017-18 season with All-Star numbers before suffering the season-ending injury in February.

It's left an awkward strain surrounding the relationship between Porzingis and the Knicks and Fizdale has rightly made it a top priority to get on the star's good side early in his tenure.

Hired just two weeks ago, Fizdale joked that "the plane's warming up" when asked if he was going to visit Porzingis in Europe this offseason. While he hasn't gone yet, Fizdale has made it known that he will go this summer to meet with him.

It's imperative that the relationship is fixed, and rather quickly. Porzingis is signed through next season before his contract expires and he might not even play due to an expected long recovery timetable. Initially, he was expected to return around Christmastime, but now his entire season is in doubt.

Regardless, he is the biggest talent and the best hope the Knicks have when it comes to being a competitive team and losing him would be disastrous to the organization. While Fizdale has a ton of work to do in order to get the Knicks on the right track in the Eastern Conference, at least he's being proactive, which can't be said about the men that came before him.
